Battenburg Cake

4oz/100g soft margarine, 4oz/100g caster sugar, 2 eggs, 2oz/50g ground rice, 4oz/100g self-raising flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, a few drops of almond essence, red food colouring.

To Finish: 3 to 4 tablespoons apricot jam, 8oz (225g) almond paste (may be bought).

Pre-heat the oven to 160C/325F/Gas 3. Grease and base line a 7”/18cm shallow square cake tin with greased greaseproof paper. Measure the margarine, sugar, eggs, ground rice, flour, baking powder and almond essence into a large bowl and beat well for about 2 minutes until smooth. Spoon half the mixture into one half of the prepared tin as neatly as possible. Add a few drops of red food colouring to the remaining mixture to turn it a deep pink colour, then spoon this into the other half of the tin. Try to get the join between the 2 mixtures as neat as possible. Smooth the surface. Bake in the pre-heated oven for about 35-40 minutes or until the cake is well risen, springy to the touch and has shrunk slightly from the sides of the tin. Turn out and leave to cool on a wire rack. Trim the edges of the cake and then cut into 4 equal strips down the length of the colours. Gently heat the apricot jam in a small pan and stick the strips of cake together, one plain piece next to one coloured piece, and then vice versa to make a chequerboard effect. Brush the top of the assembled cake with apricot jam. Roll out the almond paste into an oblong the length of the cake and sufficiently wide to wrap around the cake. Invert the cake onto the almond paste, then brush the remaining 3 sides with apricot jam. Press the almond paste neatly round the cake, arranging the join in one corner.
